

Appendix: Curriculum Vitae of Kevin Hannigan

Qualifications

1996	PhD (Economics), Trinity College, Dublin Thesis: 'The Economics of Tourism Growth in Ireland' . Supervisor: Professor John O'Hagan
1990	MA Economics, University College Dublin
1989	BA (Hons) Economics and Politics, University College Dublin
2000	Diploma in Applied Finance, Irish Management Institute
1999	Postgraduate Diploma in Statistics, Trinity College, Dublin

Awards & Scholarships

1990-92	Irish–American Partnership Scholarship
1987	UCD College Prize in Economics

Career Experience

1997 to date	Principal, KHSK Economic Consultants • Founded independent consultancy in 1997, operated successfully since then • Manage projects, form and manage teams and consortia • Undertake projects as sole or lead contractor or in consortia.
2020 to date	Subject Specialist, Mazars Consulting Ireland • Undertake economic appraisal projects with leading consultancy • Contribute to sourcing projects and developing proposals
2020 to date	Subject Specialist, Tomorrow's Tourism, UK • Undertake research on tourism with leading UK consultancy • Contribute to sourcing projects and developing proposals
2000 to 2020	Associate Faculty, Irish Management Institute • Deliver course modules at Diploma, Degree and Masters levels. • Contribute to new course design and development
2011 to 2018	Associate Faculty, School of Business, NUI Maynooth • Developed and delivered economics courses at M.Sc. level • Supervise projects and dissertations.

1997 to 2014 Economist, Peter Bacon Ltd., Economic Consultants

- Undertook projects on a contractual basis with Peter Bacon for many years
- Organised teams and managed larger projects
- Numerous published studies.

1997 to 2000 Head of Research, Irish Management Institute

- Developed new research programme
- Co-ordinated research and managed research agenda
- Contributed to and taught on IMI development programmes.

1994 to 1997 Senior Economist, National Economic and Social Council

- Contributed to development of NESC research agenda
- Undertook research and presented to Council
- Prepared reports for publication.

1991 to 1994 Lecturer, Department of Banking and Commerce, University of Ulster,
Coleraine, Northern Ireland

- Developed and delivered courses at Degree and Masters levels
- Assessed coursework, Masters dissertations and end-of-year exams

Kevin has also acted as an expert witness and in an advisory capacity to a number of organisations including the Chief State Solicitors Office, the Office of Public Procurement, the Competition and Consumer Protection Commission and An Bord Pleanála, and as a Member of the Investigations Committee of the Institute of Incorporated Public Accountants.